DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Shimatani, et al. (JP Publication No. 10-260681). Regarding claim 7, Shimatani discloses the use of determining if control codes are “contained in the source musical composition data” (paragraph [0019] – “discriminates” and “investigates” are equivalent to “determining”) Shimatani also discloses the use of deleting control data that is contained in the source file (paragraph [0019] – “eliminate” is synonymous with “delete”). Furthermore, it is noted that when the device of Shimatani plays music that it “reads out the while of source musical composition data.” (It is noted that the newly amended claim 7 does not contain the limitation that the control codes are “not constant throughout the whole of the musical composition.” Therefore, as interpreted by the Examiner, this claim merely recites determining if codes are present, and then deleting codes, with no stipulation as to which codes are deleted.)

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 1 – 6 and 8 – 12 are allowed. Regarding claims 9 and 12, the reasons for allowance were put forth in the previous Office Action (mailed February 8, 2007).

Regarding claims 1 – 6, 10, and 11, the prior art does not disclose the use of subjecting all of the control codes to a composition data search for the determination of whether the control codes are constant or not. The prior art requires a user to make a change to a control code before that code (and only that code) will be made constant.

4. Perhaps the omission was inadvertent, claim 7 would be allowable of the limitation drawn to “are not constant throughout the whole of the musical composition” was added. Thus, any effects that are not constant would be deleted from the data.

Response to Arguments

The Applicant has persuasively argued that a distinction exists between Applicant's invention and the prior art (except for claim 7).
